MORE INFORMATION

Please, tell us a bit more about your library, pictures are also welcome:

Short description: Public Library "Don Michael Pavlinović" is located in a completely renovated areas of city houses. Senior citizens building Libraries also called DOMLJAN house, according to its original owners, a prominent urban families Domljan. Family first president of the Croatian Parliament Dr. Zarko Domljan after moving to Zagreb sold the house built in the late 1932.god. to Imotski town. Although written information about the architect and the exact year of construction of the house, no, it is assumed that the built in 30-ies, and Dr. Domljan accurately assumed that this was the year mentioned. Since 2001. The Ministry of Culture funded the restoration DOMLJAN home for library. Until then, the building has housed several unorganized urban institutions and associations. The main investor is Imotski Public Library. The project, now incorporates a full library service to citizens. From borrowing books, reading room, Internet service to their pupils in spaces reserved for them for a few hours. Renovated library building that is more important buildings and because Imotski until 2006. had not had any independent institution, public library. The library was only one department other cultural institutions in the City. Through the efforts of the present director of the PhD. Mary Jovic library is independent, and is the holder of all cultural events in the City.

Current library programs: In our area there are 18 000 books. The Library exists preschool department, school of literature, high school, department of adult books and archives. In adult our users rarely go disappointed. I always find something for them any books for a hobby or professional reading. In the archives department which is located in the attic are old valuable books that are now almost out of print. Often find themselves exactly where they need such books. It also opens the door then Libraries and wholeheartedly help them.

Reading Room at the department our users can then look at what they are interested in these books, and they go back to the department. Of course the books are kept, and librarians do not allow taking and lending outside. The department Library users can then read newspapers and use encyclopedias and specialized reading that is not there.

Literary and poetic evenings, book promotions, exhibitions ...
